

ACEs & Trauma-Informed Care (TIC) Action Planning

What is one thing your organization can do in the next six months to move toward becoming more trauma-informed?

- Assess PhD interest in TIC
- Identify a couple of sites for training and pilot launch
- Provide learning to staff – create QI project
- Interview home visitors to determine at what level ACEs screening is occurring
- Figure out a baseline for where we are now and where we would like to be in the future
- Explore opportunities to integrate TIC into prenatal education classes
- Research those who already have something in place to find a “template” to use state wide
- Focus on assuring conditions for healthy moms/babies through consultation and evaluation support
- Universal understanding of the importance of trauma informed interventions and assessments (KPOP)
- I will have staff learn about ACEs and TIC by watching Paper Tigers and implement more robust practices.
- Integrate ACE into current interventions and programs
- Train staff on TIC. Incorporate screening (ACEs) in order to better service our families.
- We will work with partners doing ACEs screening to receive high-risk referrals to out injury prevention programs.
- Train the organization beyond ACEs and focus on resilience changing contexts/settings and trauma – informed practices
- Clarify confidentiality issues/concerns that may be barriers to trauma – informed practice
- Provide training to grantee partners
- Training staff on ACE – tell people
- We are building information into our care coordination pilot program, so staff will be better at working with families and clients.
- Provide ACEs/TIC awareness training at the GPHC.
- Look at potential for building reports/triggers in DAISEY for follow-up on referrals.
- Finish implement the Mindfulness Training programs.
- Strengthen screening and referral process by including more grantees in meeting like this.
- Publish a report on KS ACE data.
- Implement consistent ACE screening and review as well as resiliency.
- Fact Sheet – finish. (White Paper) on CYSHCN Trauma Informed Care.

What do you need to successfully make progress on this issue?

- Resources to present to staff.
- Explore resources to look at on site. Visit location to determine if setting is trauma informed.

What actions can the MCH Council take to advance TISC in the state?

- Model the behavior.
- Council members can provide resources to local health agencies.
